

3:30 – Teri Sharp

I started running in 2012 as a way to spend more quality time with my husband. I quickly fell in love with the sport after finishing ahead of him at my first 5k. Within a year of that first race, I completed both my first half and full marathon. At my second marathon, I met my co-pacer, Hilary, and we became “Fast Friends” (pun intended). Since then, I have run numerous half and full marathons. When I am not training, I am a third grade teacher in a small, rural school in southwestern Wisconsin. I am known for my cheesy jokes and upbeat personality. I enjoy pacing because I like helping people reach their goals and fulfill their dreams.
