

3:45 – Vicki Schneider

I started running to help stay in shape for soccer. In 1997, some friends of mine were running Grandma's marathon. I like a good challenge, so I decided to give it a try. Since then I have run a number of races from 5ks to marathons to relays.

I started pacing races just last year and had such great experiences, typically in the last miles of the race. Most 'non' runners think we are crazy, my typical response is 'there are worse things we could be doing'.

Even though I am a runner, I'm an engineer by trade, so I will probably run out of things to say over the course of the race, but I will do my best to keep you motivated and finish with the group!
